

Sharon Walker

4/22/25

Developmental Psychology

Professor Hunter

A motivational theory that is one of my favorites is the Maslow Hierarchy of Needs. The two areas that stand out for me in his model are self-actualization and self-esteem.

Maslow Hierarchy of Needs

Self-Actualization~ creativity, experience purpose, meaning and inner potential.

Title: Lights, camera, and action.

Characters *God *Jesus Christ *The Universe	Setting The living world.
---	---

God (G)	"I give you my only son, Jesus Christ."
Jesus Christ (JC)	"Why Father"?
The universe (U)
G	"To save the plant my son."
U	"How can he save us"?
G	"He can erase your sins."
JC	"How can I do that father"?
U	"Sins! He is a sinner himself." "He cannot erase anything."
JC	"I am here sacrificing my own life for you. "I am no sinner; your hearts are true."
U	"This is nonsense!  " Believing a Jew is like coining pennies at my dispensary." "Sacrifice is head and send it to me." "LIAR"!

Title: You can do it.

Self-esteem~ unique, confident, respect for others, and individually characterized.

Characters *Andy *Wilbert *Charlotte *Farm Animals	Setting  A farm.
--	--------------------------------------

Wilbert (W)	“I am a pig.”
Charolette (C)	“I am a spider.”
Farm animals (FA)	“This pig is useless.”
C	“Chin up, chin up!”
W	“WOO WOOH, WOOA WOOHA”
FA sheep	“He doesn't belong here.”
C	“Take your time Wilbert.”
FA goose	“He will mess up, he is a pig, they know how to get messy.”
W	“How do I look”?
C	“RAIDENT!”
FA	“That pig is amazing.”
A	“The pig, he is mine.